News&Views: 100 years of forest inventories in Norway

What has changed because of the forest inventories? Probably a lot, and you can get to know it all in the latest edition of News&Views. You can also read about the first conference for the newly established network "Nordic Women in Forestry".

Biodiversity and economy in natural management

Louise Hjelmroth got our scholarship and went to southern England to study practical examples of close to nature management. The potential of irregular high stand forests and its correlation to biodiversity is clear, as well as the need for this topic to be even further investigated.
