SNS celebrates 50 years with a call for research networks and projects

Nordic Forest Research (SNS) has, as a co-operating body under the Nordic Council of Ministers, been a unifying factor in Nordic forest research since its establishment in 1972. This year SNS is celebrating its 50 years anniversary with an extra open call.

With this call, SNS wants to look toward the future, using knowledge gained through the past 50 years to provide a better scientific basis for a constructive dialogue about future forestry.

The overall focus is resource management and biodiversity in Nordic forests, with emphasis on the development of Nordic forests and the interaction between resource management and biodiversity.

Deadline for application: October 14, 2022 at 24:00 CEST
